

The pandemic has been public knowledge for 15 months now. In other words, council has had well over a freaking year to figure out how to hold public meetings publicly. They have failed. They are failing to show leadership while demonstrating fear. They need to get it together.

The water district they so casually threaten to "take over" every now and again has been meeting in person for months now. Take us over. We'll come in and show those amateurs what real leadership looks like.
