

Overview of responses to survey: 9 total

Oil and gas activity should be banned and the city isn't taking the right approach to manage oil and gas.

"Oil and gas is a very complex issue with legal, environmental, health, city concerns, etc. to balance. Good to have a measured, careful process that the city is doing." City is taking the right approach. This meeting provided basic information and access to resources, it was a good meeting.

The city is taking the right approach to manage oil and gas development and the materials presented were helpful.

City is taking the right approach to manage oil and gas development. The Extraction Agreement is a good approach and I have a favorable impression of the changes to the LDC.

I'm unsure about the city's approach to oil and gas development within the city, but I feel the materials presented tonight were useful.

The city is taking the right approach to manage oil and gas activity in the city. I have a good impression of the Extraction Agreement and semi-favorable impression of the changes to the LDC.

The materials presented tonight were useful and I feel that the city is taking the right approach to oil and gas management.

"I believe the city has its citizens' interests at the center of what they are doing" and the materials presented tonight were helpful.

"The word is not getting out the way it needs to to citizens. Notification needs to be stepped up. My concerns are with the city of Brighton and Adams County regarding oil and gas because I trust our City Council (at least most of the time) Ha ha."

My impression of the proposed amendments to the LDC are favorable, the Extraction Agreement could use some work, but the materials presented tonight were useful. I feel the city is taking the right approach to management.