22 Feet: It Matters

The U.S. Department of Transportation's 2016 Final Report to Congress found that longer double-trailer trucks, called "Double 33s," take 22 more feet to stop than twin-trailer trucks that are on the road today.