BACKGROUND/REQUEST

The Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) will be providing updates on the I-270 Corridor project.

In 2020, CDOT and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) began a National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) process, which at that time, anticipated an environmental assessment. In 2023, CDOT determined at an expanded environmental assessment was needed and requested an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to be initiated. As part of the two-year EIS process, public comment and feedback are welcomed to continue to shape the future of this highway and corridor. The environmental study has a current completion date of Fall 2026.

On June 3, 2024, the City Council was given an update from CDOT regarding the I-270 project, which included information regarding the I-270 project, the environmental study process, and updates to the earliest phases of the EIS.

During the January 26, 2026 presentation, staff members from CDOT will be presenting on the draft EIS, which includes the following elements: structure of the EIS, purpose and goals of the I-270 project, design alternatives, costs, and phasing of the project.
